CHARGES FILED AGAINST PAELE

KEANU OF KOOLAULOA ACCUSES THE SUPERVISOR OF WRONGFULLY HOLDING OUT $10 OF HIS SALARY—TROUBLE OVER THE WORK OF THE FORMER ROAD OVERSEER IN THE BUILDING OF A BRIDGE AT PUNALUU.

There is trouble over at Koolauloa, trouble between Supervisor Paele and Road overseer J. K. Keanu which the Board of Supervisors will be called upon to look into.

According to the story told in town today by Keanu, Supervisor Paele has "had it in for him" for some time past. Paele objected to the manner in which a certain bridge at Punaluu had been built by Keanu and last week he sent another man to take Keanu's place, notifying Keanu that he was discharged. Saturday when Paele came to town, he took with him to Koolauloa all of the warrants for payment of County employees there and the cash for their payment as well. Keanu had his salary of $50 coming to him but, according to charges filed by him with the County Clerk, Supervisor Paele held out $10, asserting that there were some barrels of lime for which Keanu would have to account before he would pay over the $10.

County Clerk Kalanokalanui did not deny this morning that Keanu had filed charges with him against Supervisor Paele but he did not feel that he had any authority to make the charges public.

"Supervisor Paele took over all of the warrants to Koolauloa with the cash for which they called," said County Treasurer Trent when asked as to the matter. "He acted as my clerk in this matter, not as a supervisor. It was done simply as a matter of convenience to the people over on the other side of the island. When they signed the warrants it was understood that Paele was to pay them from the cash with which I provided him. Certainly I am responsible if there is anything wrong. At present I have nothing but Keanu's unsupported statement that he signed a warrant for $50 but that Paele would only pay him $40. If that story is correct I shall of course pay the missing $10 to Keanu at once. Even if, as Supervisor Paele is said to claim, Keanu is short in the lime or other supplies, he has no right whatever to retain any portion of the man's salary."

"Meanwhile Paele is over on the other side of the island and is probably in complete ignorance of any trouble. The matter will be sifted out by the supervisors, no doubt."

DREDGER PACIFIC HARD AT WORK

POWERFUL ENGINES ARE RAPIDLY SCOOPING THE MUD OUT OF THE HARBOR AND ARE PLACING IT ON THE NAVAL RESERVE. SPLENDID SERVICE BEING DONE BY A MODEST LITTLE SHIP ON THE WATER FRONT.

"The manner in which the suction dredger Pacific is tearing the mud out of the bottom of the harbor and is piling it up on the naval reserve is a sight which causes wonder to all observers."

The dredger is of course of an entirely different type from the big shovel Governor which is employed in eating out the new Alakea street slip for it is intended for an entirely different class of work. It is used for the handling of mud only and not for pulling up rock, though so great is the power of the suction wheel that chunks of coral of large size are thrown up by it.

Across from the new Immigration station the Pacific lies, and from her there extends a long pipe line past Young Brother's place. The Pacific is a modest enough looking craft and gives little external indication of the power of the engines that she holds. At the far end of the pipe, however, the tremendous stream of muddy water which gushes forth on the flats is indication enough of her power. The mud and sand brought up is of a pearl gray color. It settles very rapidly after being discharged from the pipe and the water flows off out to sea again. The large space inside the naval sea wall, makai of the Immigration station has already been raised two feet or more and the land is growing almost visibly.

To a casual observer the most astonishing thing is the silence which accompanies the work of the Pacific. Save for the throbbing of her engines she lies quietly enough at anchor in the harbor while the mud boils about the suction intake and the outlet.

She is well up with her work and barring accidents she will be able to complete her contract with Uncle Sam well within the allotted time.

GOING TO TEND LEPERS OF GUAM

There are lepers at Guam as well as other places and the Syracuse sisters of charity are just as anxious to go to Guam to try and relieve the sufferings of the afflicted in that section, as they are to go to other places where duty calls them. Two of the noble members of the order are aboard the transport new however, it will be simply in a the lepers.

The work before them will not be new however, it will be simply in a different clime for they have already had experience among the lepers in the Atlantic ocean. One of them, Mother Benedict, has lived among the lepers in Porto Rico and the other, Sister Colombo, has lived among the lepers of Cuba.

GOING TO THE JURY.

Farnham Possibly A Grafter

ENVOY EMPLOYED BY HAWAIIAN GOVERNMENT 65 YEARS AGO APPARENTLY DID NOTHING.

Dr. W. D. Alexander, author of the standard history of the Hawaiian Islands and the best authority on the subject, showed much interest in the discoveries made yesterday by Secretary Lydecker of the Board of Archives in connection with the mission of one Farnham, who was sent from here as an envoy to the French government. There is much uncertainty about what Farnham did in the matter, if anything, but it is known at least that he was paid. Farnham's employment was in the year 1840.

"I have never been able to find out whether Farnham performed any of the services for which he was employed," said Dr. Alexander. "It is not even known whether he went to Europe at all. Perhaps some records may eventually turn up to show what he did, but so far information on the point is lacking."

Benjamin Butler was consulted by the Hawaiian government in connection with the Farnham matters, as is shown by the correspondence found by Lydecker. Butler acted in the capacity of advisory counsel.

The treaties which the Hawaiian government wanted to have set aside, and which Farnham was supposed to try to set aside, contained provisions which were very humiliating to the Hawaiian government. Under their provisions the island government was not recognized as competent to administer the laws, and it was provided that no French subject should be tried for any offense in Hawaii except by a jury of foreigners, selected by the French consul. Trade advantages were also given to France, in the treaties.

A Sugar Company Looking For a Site

CORPORATION WITH $2,000,000 CAPITAL WILL PROBABLY LOCATE IN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 4.—The promoters of the Alta California Beet Sugar Company, recently organized with a capital stock of $2,000,000, are considering several sites for the location of the big concern, San Joaquin valley being favorably discussed. The factory will embrace every known economical device "or the manufacture of sugar, and around the several buildings a townsite to repeat the history of Oxnard, with several hundred houses, will be established by the company. The company will own a large tract of land which it intends to colonize.

The officers of the company were elected today, the board of directors being composed of Thomas R. Bard, Jackson A. Graves, Jacob Baruch, C. W. Gates, Ernest C. Hamilton, H. Burnham, C. A. Canfield and W. C. Baker, from among whom will be chosen the president and secretary. The Farmers and Merchants' National Bank will be the treasurer of the company, J. P. Rein will be head agriculturist, and others to be prominently connected with the workings of the business will be J. McCoy Williams and E. C. Hamilton, for many years in the employ of the American Beet Sugar Company.

JUROR WANTED SAMPLES

other, and the trial is a constant three-cornered fight. Breckons closed for the prosecution this morning and Attorneys Thayer and Olsen joined in a motion to instruct a verdict for defendants. Judge Dole denied the motion after argument.

Regas took the stand in his own behalf. He denied that he had signed the name of Ricardo on the money order or that he had secured the $20 for which it called. He was under arrest at the time of the securing of the order, which came in a letter from Paia, and he went to the post office in charge of Silva, who was a special officer, according to the prosecution. Regas denied the whole charge. On cross-examination Breckons brought out the fact that when Regas returned from the post office the police, on searching him at Oahu prison found $10 in one of his pockets, which was not found in the first search at the police station.

Silva took the stand and denied signing the order also. He admitted having identified Regas as Ricardo Regas and said he understood that Regas was Reveira.

One of the jurors proposed that each defendant write the name of Reveira in court, so that the jury might judge which of them had forged the name of Reveira to the money order by comparing the handwriting. Both the defendant's attorneys objected, and the jury had to do without the samples.

DR. JEFFERIS LOVES HAWAII

NOTED DIVINE GROWS ENTHUSIASTIC WHEN HE TALKS ABOUT THE ISLAND SCENERY.

"Hawaii is simply glorious," said the Venerable Dr. W. M. Jefferis Archdeacon of Little Rock, Ark., this morning. "Here I intended staying over for only one steamer and it seems to me that I am anchored already. I've only seen a little bit of Hawaii, too, and I am told that there are scenes to be visited which will put in the shadow all that I have seen here on Oahu. It's hard to believe, but I have not reached the stage of unbelief in what Hawaii has to offer in the way of climate and scenery."

The Archdeacon dropped into poetry. "It is so sweet to live This little life today That I would never leave it If I could forever stay."

"That seems to be a sort of a self-evident proposition," he said with a laugh "but to me it seems to apply to Hawaii. I thought that Ceylon was the most beautiful place in the world—until I came here. I was over at Judge Weaver's place last week and saw many beautiful places while there. I met the Rev. Robert Makua, an Hawaiian minister who told me many most interesting things about Hawaiian manners and customs."

"Hawaii's future? Well it seems to me that the United States must fortify heavily if there is any intention of preserving this as American territory. Look at what Britain has done in Bermuda! I venture to say that if Britain would sell the United States could well afford to pay as much as $500,000 for that tiny island of Bermuda alone. If trouble ever arose between Britain and the United States—and mind you, I do not think for a moment that trouble ever will arise—the position of Bermuda would be a very nasty one for us to have to deal with. The place is practically impregnable, and I think that here in the mid-Pacific Uncle Sam should have another Bermuda."

"One thing that people here should remember is that Japan is at present the best advertised country in the world. People will be going through here in large numbers in a very few months. The Trans-Siberian railroad is about to be re-opened and the Japanese have arranged to put passengers through from Tokyo to Seoul in sixty hours. This will bring many people this way. As a resort for tourists and for people who wish to restore jaded health Hawaii must always lead."

"Have I enjoyed my stay? Well, here I am and if I did not love the place I would not stay. Everyone has been kindness personified."

Archdeacon Jefferis is finishing up a round-the-world trip of enquiry into the condition of the missionary field. He will speak at the Seamen's Institute for the Brotherhood of St. Andrew next Wednesday and on Sunday next will preach at St. Clement's.

DESERTERS

United States Marshal Hendry and Commissioner W. B. Mailing left today for Lahaina, the marshal taking with him a sailor named R. Law, who is a deserter from the British ship Wetherfield and is to be surrendered to the captain, at the request of Consul De Layard. There are two other deserters, who are supposed to be in Lahaina, and Hendry will arrest them if they can be found. Mailing will give them a hearing on the spot, as commissioner, and they also will be turned over to the ship.

DANGEROUS FIRE EARLY THIS MORNING

SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION IN INTER-ISLAND SHIP CHANDLERY WAREHOUSE.

The department was called out at 2:47 o'clock this morning by an alarm from Box 15 at the corner of Nuuanu and Queen street. The fire was in the warehouse of the Inter-Island ship chandlery on the mauka side of Queen street opposite the boat landing. Spontaneous combustion in the paints, oils and tar stored in the warehouse is supposed to have caused the fire.

It was well that the building was of such character as to keep the fire in bounds until the department arrived. Acting Chief Deering had the two chemicals and later a stream of water work on the fire until the blaze was extinguished. Lieut. W. Vierra of the chemical engine had his hand badly burned fighting the fire. The damage was about $400.

APPEAL TO WASHINGTON.

At the meeting this morning the directors discussed taking the matter to the Supreme Court of the United States, if the assessment is repeated next year.

CALLS CUPID PUPILS' BANE

PASTOR SEES EVIL IN THE LOVE-MAKING OF CHILDREN IN THE SCHOOLS.

LA CROSSE, Wis., October 19.—The Rev. Joseph F. Flint of Harvey, Ill., spoke today on "The Cloud Over the Schoolhouse" at the National Purity conference, in which he brought out some interesting facts regarding the existing conditions in the schools of this country.

He said that, while the school is one of the brightest places for children, there is too strong a disposition, even in the intermediate grades, to pair off, and many of the children are looking for "sweethearts" in their tender years. "This condition is far more intense than it ever was before," he said "and is steadily on the increase. Child suicide is on the increase and has become a class by itself in the list of crimes."

Of young men the speaker spoke at length, and said that, judging from many recent instances, it would seem as if the weaker should demand of the girls "your love or your life." In a number of cases, he said, murders have been committed because the girl refused to accept the love of a youth. He referred to the fact that no less than four murders of this nature were recorded in one single week recently. "As a remedy for this evil," he said "cultivation, giving the children the correct information regarding sex life and a new revival of obedience, would go far to take the cloud off the school house."

CRUSHED TO DEATH

shaft of which had to undergo some repairing. The roller was on a car which was hauled near the turning machine into which the end of the roller was to be placed. Kamaka and Peter stood on the Waikiki side of the car with crowbars prying the roller along for the purpose of getting it on a line even with the machinery into which the shaft was to be thrust. Kahula stood on the opposite side of the car and at the other end of the roller so as to steady the roller.

The roller was at a slight angle. In some way the roller got away and started to roll toward the end of the car. Kahula saw the thing coming toward him but he was standing too close and it caught his foot. He tried to crawl out of the way but fell at the end of the car and the roller rolled onto him, crushing his left leg and finally resting upon his abdomen. The man's head struck against some object for a concussion was noticed later.

When the horrified fellow workmen of the deceased got the roller off the body of the prostrate man it was at first thought that he was still living but he was then past all help and evidently expired within a short time after the accident. The police were notified of the occurrence and had the body removed to the morgue where Deputy Sheriff J. S. Kalakela took the coroner's jury to view the remains. The inquest was set for tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The deceased lived at Camp No. 2. He leaves a widow and several children. The family was not apprised of the tragedy until several hours after it happened. A cousin of the deceased went to notify them of the occurrence. The deceased had been employed in the Iron Works about ten years and was a very efficient man.
